

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The die bonder which mounts dies piece by piece on a base has a laser machining part which causes laser light to become incident from the obverse surface of a wafer and forms a modified region in the interior of the wafer. In this manner, the die bonder itself has the function of dividing the wafer into individual dies. Thus, the dicing step before the die bonding step can be omitted.